UNDERCLASSMAN

How Do You Get There?

This is a question often asked by 7th graders, as they wearily stare up at those gigantic seniors and wonder "How do you get there?"

Well, we're almost there. And we've all changed in our own special ways and will continue to change year after year. Seventh grade seems so long ago and twelfth grade seems so far away. But we are almost there so keep up the good work and hang on for the challenges ahead because "You can get there from here!!"

As the time when we are leaving is coming soon, we come closer and stick together. Here Lisa and Liz show us how it is!

Dennis, I always thought it was hard raising a child, but it is much harder letting go of a young man. Whatever you do in life, we know that you will do your best. We will always be there to help you. Remember, though you never go back, you can always come home. GOOD LUCK & GOD BLESS YOU SON! Love, Mom, Dad, Scott, Christine

Erica, Sunshine, you've been a treasured gift since we brought you home at 4 1/2 lbs. A happy quiet, observant, spirit the 1st year- fast change! You became strong, athletic, creative and quick to learn. Difficult ingenious tasks you set and accomplish continues to amaze me. This spark I most admire inspires me. Erica Knudsen, AT LAST! You've endured it's here! "The brink of total independence" May you always find courage to fight for your beliefs. If you keep the faith, there is always hope. May success follow you wherever you go. (Don't forget where home is) For all of your accomplishments but especially for being you, I'm very proud of you. Never lose sight of your dreams. Love, Mom

Jason Lane,
Our little angel. NOT!
got into mischief alot.
But through all the years
He gave us few tears
and so very much joy
that dear little boy.
We want him to know wherever he might go.
He takes with him our love; he's a young man we're proud of. And we hope that he's glad that we're his mom and dad.
