Wonderful Tonight By: Eric Clapton

It's late in the evening;
She's wondering what clothes to wear.
She puts on her make-up;
And brushes her long blonde hair.
And then she asks me; do I look alright?
And I say yes, you look wonderful tonight...

I feel wonderful;
Because I see the love in your eyes.
And the wonder of it all; is that you just don't realize how much I love you...

I say my darling, you were wonderful tonight...

FAREWELL

Here's to the class of 2002!
Along time in making
but look how we grew!
Our spirit is strong as everyone knows

Our floats were all winners,
years 2, 3, and 4!
We've expanded our boundaries
through studies and work
And visited Germany,
France and New York.
The high school we leave is now
finally done.

But wow, what a mess we put up with, not fun!

No gym, no library, no lockers,
no walls,
No parking, only mudpit,
no ceiling, just halls.

TO SENIORS

We have left some trophies-- girls soccer, boys hoop;
Band and chorus got superior,
we are a great group!
With a hug for all we must now take our leave.

As we're off to new challenges, new memories to weave.

We have given a lot and taken much more.

We leave with mixed feelings as we head through the door.

The class of '02 will set off and run.

Now that we're parting,
at least we will know

That we all have each other,
wherever we go.

"My biggest goal as a teacher is to inspire in students a respect for other living things. Biology is a nice tool for doing this because to me knowledge is the seed of appreciation and appreciation leads to respect."

"I really like working here--I don't have trouble getting up in the morning to come here because I have fun in my classes and although I try to make my classes pretty challenging, I think that most students in my classes have fun too."

"Some people are puzzled by the fact that this is where I ended up, but I've traveled all over and not only is this part of Vermont a conscious settling place for me, so is VUHS. The faculty here is like one big family and the students here are like my friends...only my mom doesn't pay them."

Ms. Taylor

This year has been an exciting year in all of our Social Studies classes. Ms. Taylor had a wonderful teacher, Carmen Wright, for the first semester. Mrs. Coffey's World Cultures classes received new textbooks, and Mr. Yarnall is retiring his last year here at S.D.H.S. Anyone who has ever taken a class with Mr. Yarnall knows how much he will be missed. Mr. Yarnall has always challenged us to do better and achieve our personal goals. Our school will continue to be the same without him.

We have five wonderful teachers in our English Department, who challenge us each and every day. Among Mr. Steen, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Schlosser, Mrs. Spaulding and Mrs. Mace provide us with a wide variety of unique English classes. They range from College Comp. and Short Stories to Shakespeare to All English to Speech/Debate. This year we had the honor of the inspiring Mrs. Mace. She has dedicated herself to her students for many years. We wish her a very happy retirement!

A Tribute to Soccer - By: Erika Miner

It was the 13th of August, and all through the town,
Every high school girl knew what was about to go down.
The first day of soccer, indeed this was true,
Parents, friends and the athletes faces, many old, and some new.

I looked all around and saw many keys,
The keys to success were all I could see.
Speed, agility and good foot work to boot,
We didn't just have a tree, we had the strong roots.
These roots were what held us together, what made us stand tall,
Doug and J.Y. gave us the bricks and we built the wall.

Together we played, as a team we fought,
Against teams that were hard and teams that were not.
We practiced and scrimmaged 'til our feet ached with pain,
But from this long, hard journey we would not refrain.

On the 27th of October, that day finally arrived,
We knew that if we worked hard enough, we could definitely thrive.
Many chances Montpelier had with many balls shot,
But Vergennes had what it needed, to come out on top.
Speed, agility and good footwork to add,
And most importantly, two coaches who were like our second and third dad.

INDOOR TRACK

After doing extensive research and presenting a plan to the VUHS School Board, the Indoor Track Club was approved in mid-December. Due to the late start in the season, there were many adversities. The 12 member club overcame these, and was able to attend four of the scheduled seven meets, and qualified to participate in State competitions. Key members this season included Brenna Krauss(program coordinator, student coach and short distance runner) Brad Castillo(short distance runner); Katy Hatch(shot-put); Justin Gordon(shot-put); and Dan McEnerney(short distance runner).

If the number of wins versus losses is an indication of how successful a team is, one may overlook the Vergennes Junior Varsity softball team. The team started off rocky with a young, and rather inexperienced group of girls. Positions were not defined, nor was the team's identity as a whole- not to mention it's new found (late into the season) coach!

With just a few practices under our belt, things started to change. The girls grew an understanding of the game, positions were being found, and most importantly they started to get to know one another on and off the field. This was the key to our success. I looked forward to meeting the girls out on the field- if anything else we always managed to have fun.

Coming up with a win was the next task we tackled! It took a handful of games before we even started playing as a team. All of the girls were recognizing their errors and seeking to improve them. As soon as this started happening our loss margin was decreased significantly!

A brisk and windy Saturday in Essex, although a loss for us, was the stepping stone of the season. Essex with a competitive record in the past, was put to the test. We played awesome! Our pitching staff was solid along with solo catcher Molly Shaw behind the plate.

All of the girls should be commended for their outstanding sportsmanship. Coach Kristi Soule

It takes a whole team to win and a whole team to lose. Every player on the team is a star in my eyes. I have great pride and respect for each and every one of them. One great memory was when we played against Burlington with only eight men, which means every ninth batter is an automatic out. We still only lost by two runs (Score: 13-11). The season was very positive as well as fun. I will miss all of these young men. I wish them all the best.

This year was a year of firsts for the yearbook staff. It was Rumsey Bristow's and Beth Bannister's first year as editors. It was Mrs. Coffey's first year as advisor. But all 3 of them came into yearbook with experience. Beth and Rumsey have been on the yearbook staff since middle school, and Mrs. Coffey was the editor of her high school yearbook.

Yearbook takes a lot of commitment. We met almost every Saturday November through February. Some of us had problems getting out of bed--but we always made it in. Saturdays were full of fun though. We listened to music, walked to Variety for lunch and had a few laughs over pictures!

Not only did we have many dedicated high school students, but our middle schoolers were unbelievable! They were quick learners and hard workers.

We hope you enjoy the 2002 Blue and White!

BEFORE TIME

For Bob Torrey

If the sky opened for me,
And the mountains disappeared,
if the seas ran dry, turned to dust,
and the sun refused to rise
I would still find my way,
By the light I see in your eyes.
The world I know fades away
but you stay.

As the earth reclaims its due.
And the cycle starts anew,
We'll stay always in the friendship that we have shared before time.

If the years take away
every memory that I have
I would still know the way
That would lead me back to your side.
The North Star may die
But the light that I see in your eyes
will burn always Lit by the friendship that we have shared before time.

When the forest turns to Jade and the stories that we've made dissolve away
One shining light will still remain.

When we shed our earthley
skin and when our real life begins,
There will be no shame
just the friendship that we have made before time.

THE ROSEBUSH

Anonymous

In Dedication to my lovely Rose, who catches all my tears.

In a garden, in a place that is not so far away, there was a rosebush. This rosebush was unlike others in that its flowers were white. Now the other rosebushes got to hear of this and would make fun of the rosebush, calling names and such. Our story opens on a day that the bush had received a most severe chiding from the other bushes (who were red and pink and shades of rouge). The sun was high in the sky, as the season had turned and it was now mid July. The bush did not regularly keep track of such things, only to know when to shed its leaves and bring forth its blossoms, but today there was a most irregular occurrence.

Down the hill from the bush sat a couple of children. They had cuddled down in the shade of the old will tree, who was at this moment straining himself with all his might to listen to the two.

"Madelaine," murmured

the boy with a face full of hair. This was met with a sort of mumbled agreement from the lady with a movement that could only be described as a non-verbal 'go on.'

"Madelaine, my dead," the boy had apparently disengaged himself from her hair, "today I must go down to the Valley and pick up some supplies for my father."

Madelaine twisted and turned, in some fashion known only to a select few of the female race, to bring her face to face with her companion; she gave him an encouraging smile and patted his cheek. One might have thought this was brushing him off, but truly the boy could wish for no action more pleasing than to be so loved.

Now old Will was a crafty soul, but he didn't quite have the ears of the foxy marigolds, always talking amongst themselves, so he had no idea that mere hours later a carriage overturned crushing a quite handsome young man walking down Cherry Lane. Perhaps if he had bothered to consult the daisies about his feet he would have, for the daisies were always poking their noses where they had no business.

The rosebush tended to listen more than speak, and so happened to overhear of the event. This made the rosebush quite sad, for it was rather fond of the young lady, as she would stop and smell it often. Thus when the rosebush saw Madelaine running teary eyed past the dragon snaps and the buttercups, it let forth such an aroma as would draw Cleopatra from her throne. As the girl stumbled by, her vision obscured by burning tears, she inhaled the bush's fragrance and stopped for a moment. She let her tear-stained eyes fall on the bush and she leaned over to it. A single crystalline tear fell from her eye onto a petal. There it sparkled such as a crystal ball containing a million diamonds, all dancing in the sunlight. It rolled down to the base of the flower and disappeared into its heart, leaving no trace of its passage.

Rose awoke with a start as a burning liquid soared down her throat. The salt in it burned its way across her innards and stopped at her heart. She fluttered in the wind shaken like no more than one of old willow's leaves. Then a fire blew through her. She ceased being but another rose and became Rose. She now had what all flowers seek, and what all dandelions envy: a purpose.

Madelaine plucked the rose that was Rose from the bush, grasping it in her hand. She ran down the hill past old willow and the daisies, past the field where the pansies play, across the bridge that the ivy owns, around the hill where the oak grows, she ran on and on, clutching Rose in her hand as painful thorns bit at her. She finally stopped at the pond, where the cattails sway. There she stared over its glassy surface and cried.

On the ground by a pond, not so far away in a place where cattails grow, there was a Rose. It lay where it had fallen from the hand of a weeping lass. Time passed and the sun shown high in the sky--the rose wilted. More time passed and the rose was no more, yet there was a crystal of salt where it once was. The rain came down and washed the salt into the pond where it was swept down the stream to the river where the birch trees grow. It flowed down to the lake, which in turn flowed to the sea and the ocean. There it was at home with other bits of dirt, little pieces of plankton, and life that thrived with such salt about.

Up river, past a pond, around a hill, over a bridge, through a field, past an old willow, there was a rosebush. It was white and unlike most other bushes. The clover at its roots giggled and laughed at its peculiarity, but it took no note. The wind blew. It rustled its leaves--fall is coming.

FALLEN
Dave Ebel

The sun is high
In the heavens, Bringing warmth down.
The new pavement
On my street
Soaks up the heat
Like an old man
At the town pool.
My road has been Through a lot this summer,
and could Use some rest.
I continue
On my stroll,
My dog sticking

His nose in small
Piles of orange,
Brown, and red leaves.
I look through the Branches, at the ten Thousand things I
See, and a falling Leaf drifts to
The cold ground.
The trees have been
Giving homes, food,
And shade to all
Variations
Of animals
This summer,
And need to rest.
Squirrels hopping
From branch to branch

Storing nuts and Packing holes
For the winter.
The squirrels and Chipmunks have been Busy over
The summer,
Raising kids and
Finding food to eat,
They could use
Some rest.
My dog pulls at
The leash towards
A chipmunk who is scurrying away.
I sniff my nose,
Because the cold
air is gnawing

"THE BIRDS"

Pithetaerus and Euelpides have left their native city, Athens, in search of a better place, a place without all of the annoyances found in modern society. No lawyers, no taxes, no prophets, no phonies. Pithetaerus decides to use birds, carefree and kind, to lead him to this new and better place. The bird guides lead the two Greeks to the mountains among the clouds, to the home of the King of the birds, Epops. Here among the clouds, Epops is convinced by Pithetaerus to create a new kingdom in which the birds are the only gods to whom mankind will offer worship and praise. Inevitably, the "pests" of modern society, the poets, lawyers, tax collectors come to the new kingdom. Once the "pests" are removed, and with courage bestowed upon him by mankind's best friend, Prometheus, Pithetaerus convinces the old gods of Greece to relinquish their power to the birds. Pithetaerus is praised by his new subjects, gets to marry a goddess, and lives happily ever after among the clouds of Cloud Cuckoo Land.

Millennium

Team Millennium has done a number of interesting things this year! We started this year off by entering in a kindness and justice challenge which went on for 2 weeks. Our team saw and performed 3,800 acts of kindness and justice. Then we rented a bowling alley for entire day as a team field trip. We also held a World Cup Soccer Tournament as part of our sports unit. Recently we went to the Shanghi Circus and watched a wonderful performance by acrobats. We are planning on going on an end of the year trip. Our team is undecided about where we are going, but we are sure to have alots of fun wherever we end up! This year has flown by, but will definately be a year to remember! The Alternative Collaborative Team is a middle level program that promotes an experiential, interdisciplinary approach to learning encompassed by a therapeutic milieu of services that addresses students' emotional, physical and social growth. A.C.T.'s standards are holistic, realistic and simplistic with vital results being that of tolerance, commitment and production. The foundational mission is to have students transition competently into mainstream educational, vocational and /community environments with the ability to remain steadfast in their achievements. This 2001-2002 academic year the A.C.T. students, in affiliation with the Lake Champlain Maritime Museum, are building an authentic 32' wooden Pilot Gig, a six person rowing Long Boat to be completed in May and then raced in an east coast rowing competition.

Have you heard about The Rolling Pin? It's a student-managed bakery that the students prepare for and manage on a weekly basis. Everyday, the students plan and prepare for Wednesday bakery day.

On alternate Wednesdays the students offer a lunch menu, which is a big hit with the staff at V.U.H.S. as well as the administrative staff at the Superintendents office. Career Life Skills Education allows the students to participate in the community through job shadowing. We venture out into the community often to visit the many businesses in our area that may offer students an employment opportunity once High School is completed.

Team Farside has had an exciting year! In each of our four core subject areas, we have studied a variety of intriguing topics. In Social Studies we spent the year focusing on U.S. History while Language Arts has consisted of various activities including individual and group book projects and an exploration of different writing techniques. In Science the students studied topics in mapping, life science and inventions, and in math we started a new program called Connected Math.

In Addition to our core classes we have participated in other activities as a team such as field trips to the movies and bowling. We also spent the night in Boston where we visited places such as the aquarium and science museum, as well as took a duck tour of the city. In terms of community service, Farside did an awesome job collecting a record amount of canned food for the local shelter and adopted a family at Christmas!

Odyssey

In addition to strong academic pursuits, the kids on Team Odyssey showed their spirit this year by reaching out to their community and their country! In response to the September 11th tragedies which took place on the first full day of school, Odyssey students raised money to help the victims of the World Trade Center collapse and sent letters to help New York City middle schoolers. During the holiday season students participated in Toys for Tots, held a food drive, and cheered residents at a neighborhood nursing home. They also enjoyed a team outing to view Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone sold candles and homemade cookie jars and help an Activity Night. "Crazy Coin Crunches" proved very popular in helping raise funds for the end of the year field trip. Students visited the Boston Aquarium, stayed over night on a WWII Battleship, and played basketball at the Basketball Hall of Fame. Two new teachers and 85 enthusiastic young people helped make the 2001-2002 school year a TERRIFIC one!

Vermont Kids Against Tobacco

Vermont Kids Against Tobacco has doubled in size since last year! 8th graders A.J. Devino, Katie Kayhart, Katrina Langer, and Amanda Burlock joined VKAT advisor Mrs. McEnerney on a weekend training session at the beginning of the year and proceeded to lead the group in many successful activities. Eager VKAT members held a poster contest, developed a number of skits to perform for elementary school kids, held a Kick Butts Dance and gave away LOTS of t-shirts. Students participated in a tobacco and alcohol survey of community stores, attended a statewide rally in Montpelier and told Lieutenant Governor Doug Racine what Vergennes VKAT is all about. Several students also created public service announcements to spread the anti-tobacco message on MCTV and beyond. GO VKAT!

Student Council

Officers and Team representatives met in the fall to plan ed-of the year activities and fundraising. Candycane grams before Christmas break and candy sales in the ew Year will be used for the Button Bay Middle School outing on June 17th. A spring-fling activity night is scheduled for May!

FAREWELL...

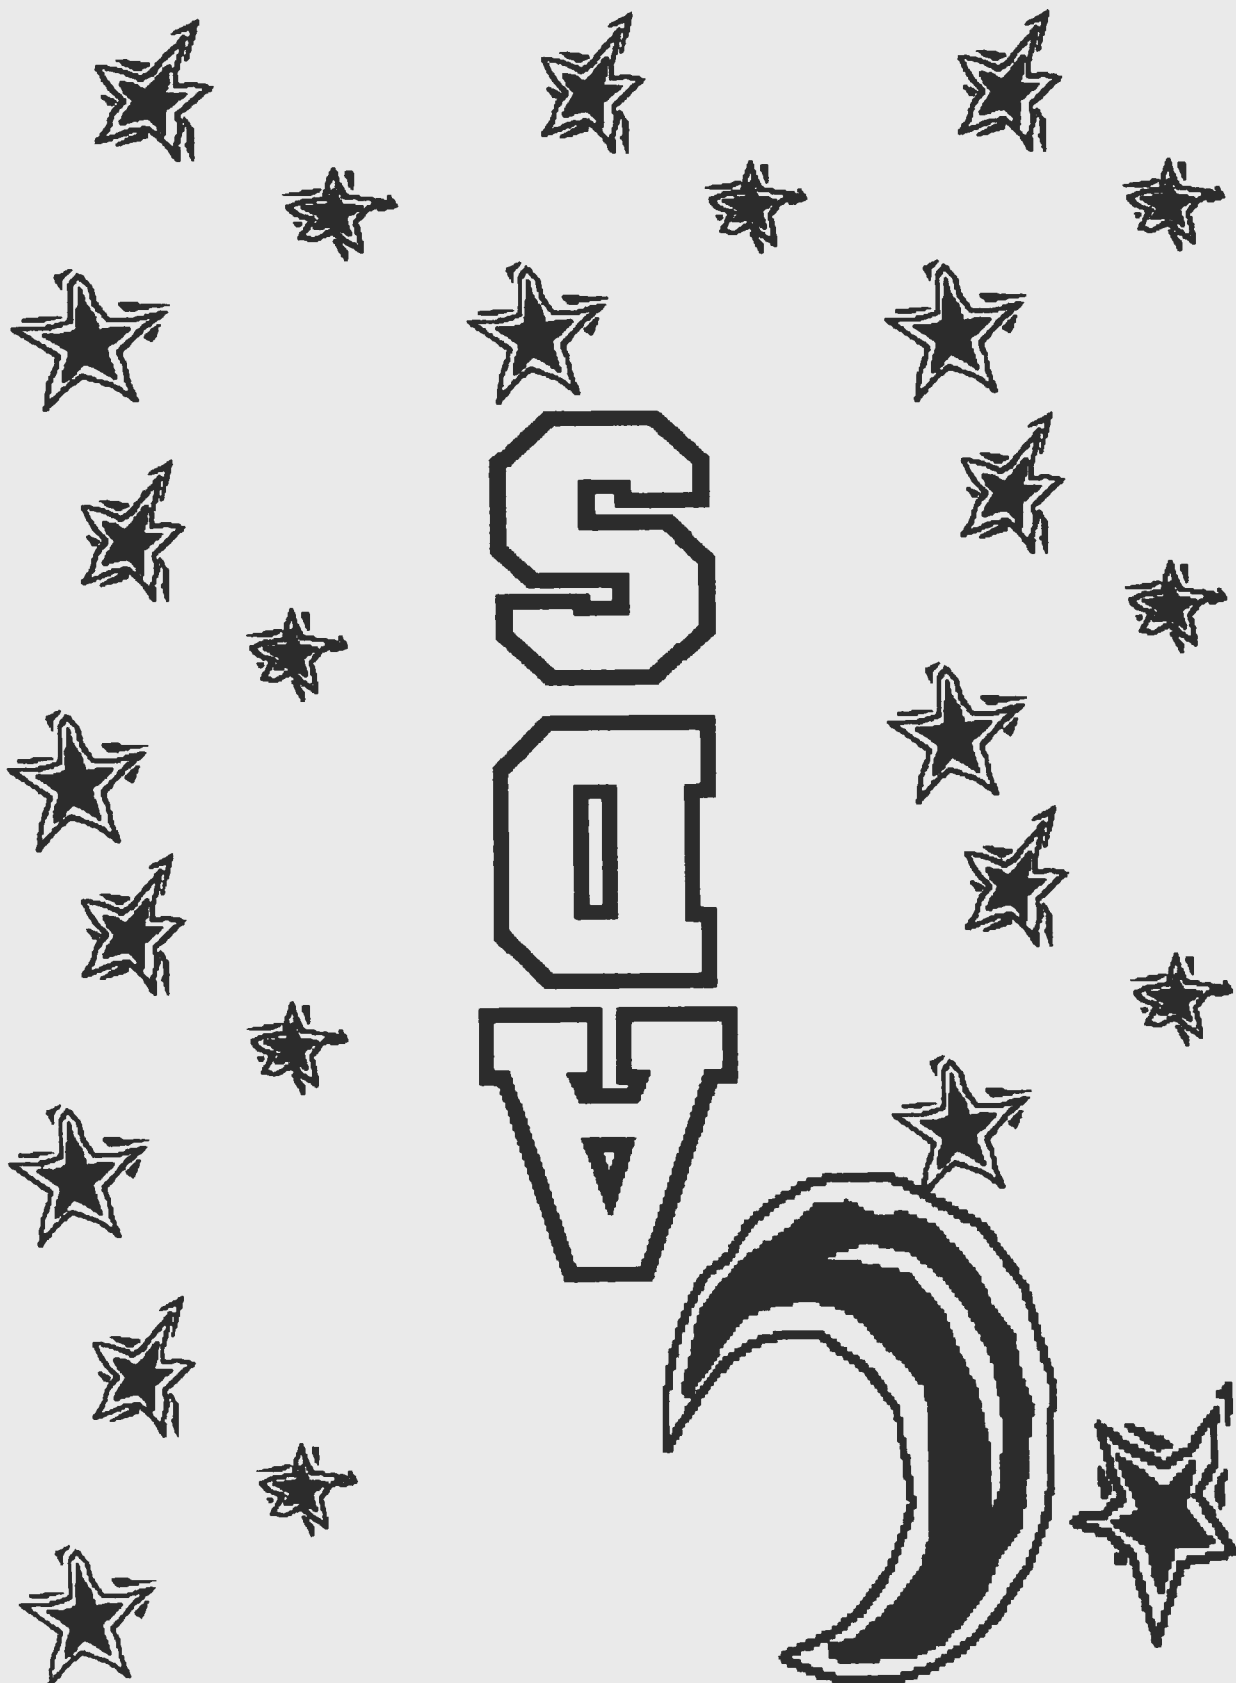

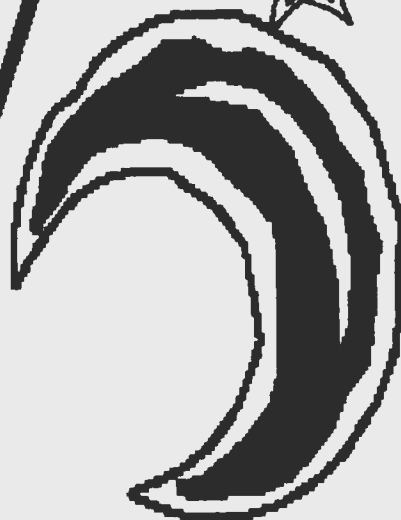

CLASS OF 2006

As we went through Middle School, we never knew the lessons we learned would be useful to us. Now as we look back on the things we did, reuniting with friends, making new ones, classes and field trips, to these days farewell we bid. We look back on the lessons we learned from teachers and friends and realize these things will be with us throughout our High School years. As we journey on to high school we will never forget the things we did and the people we met throughout our Middle School days.

I hope you find Everything you are worthy of.

Tenderness of strangers
All your trouble

Cause everyone needs love to be alone
And make time will bring you back,
And if it does, you always have a home.

WE WILL NEVER FORGET...

...THE DAYS OF CONSTRUCTION!

In Memory

by Danielle LaFave

Vergennes has come together with an incredible kind of love
That has baffled me since the Lord took our cherished children and brought them to heaven above Jennifer, who was fifteen was a peer mediator who liked to help others get along Erin who was fourteen had just found the lord
perhaps in a song
Leatha who was eighteen sold us our food people waited in her line, maybe just to change their mood Everyone has said they are caring friendly girls who loved to make you smile
They each had their own little way and their own little style
God took our children, our friends, our sisters away and has made even total strangers stand up and say
I too shed a tear and sit to have a cry
I ask myself and the Lord, please, please Why?
I'm sure he has his reasons
I guess we're not to know
why he sometimes brings us so much sorrow
As I watch the children of Vergennes wander aimlessly through town
I pray for the days again when their face weren't a frown
I want to take each of them in my arms and help them say
I hope that someday I'll understand why you took our friends away
Now that Erin, Leatha, and Jennifer are gone
we realize how many lives they touched Their spirits shall and will live forever on Let's remember all the good times they had and not the few bad
Let's celebrate their short lives and maybe soon we'll forget to be sad
Even though the loss of these girls pierced our hearts and souls like knives
Let's continue to grow stronger as a community and show our love to each other
Instead of big teary sighs
Becky, Lori, Joseph, and Rick, the city says to you
We're so sorry and we're not sure what to do
But just remember when the mourning is over and your cheeks start to dry
we want you to realize
Your girls are safe in Heaven, with Jesus Christ above
They will always be with you in your hearts and dreams of love
So lets all pull together to heal our pain
the Lord works in mysterious ways
The Little City of Vergennes will never be the same.

In Loving Memory...

The sign in front of VUHS has become a place to grieve for many in the city of Vergennes. The Valley Voice wishes to express our deepest sympathy to the friends and families of Jennifer, Leatha and Erin.

In Memory of...

May 8, 1999

Erin and Jen were two of my closest friends.
When I was sad they would always find a way to make me be happy. I will never forget the fun times we had together nor the times we shared crying. They were a big part in my life and still will be. I love them and I will miss them dearly.
I would also like to add that Leatha I am sorry that we never mended our differences you will always be in my heart along with Erin and Jen.
So good bye for now but one day we will see each other again.

Love always and forever,
Jillian Paquette

Erin Jenn and Leatha

Erin, Jenn and Letha have lost their lives
And has left us in pain and strife
We all will get over it in a while
But until we do we lean on each other
Though we will miss them forever
We will love them more and more each day.

A dream not dared until October 26th,
When eating a delectable Italian mix,
A task unthinkable,
But maybe not for this team unsinkable.

A season filled with promise; a season filled with hope.
So many seat squirming 1 nil wins,
Can we possibly do this?
Montpelier declares. "Nope."

We board the bus with parents & fans in tow.
Our emotions run high, and our stomachs squeal,
J.Y. is on the bus and Mr. Championship is at the wheel.
The champions trophy is at my side
A challenge from a friend to bring it back for a ride.

The match begins nervously but the team finds its feet.
Our fans are loud. Those familiar voices are so sweet.
No score in the first half but we play with confidence and skill
A brief talk at the half, keep the ball on the deck, Knock it around if you will.

Second half ticks away, Jen Litch goes down the right, we get a call Erika! I scream. Rachel, Bethany - get to the back post for that ball.
She has already struck it, the ball is in the air, this time I will watch.
Oh! It's a good one, a driven shot that finds a notch.
It's 1-nil! Yee-ha! But...there's 24 minutes still.

As you know the Commodore girls defend with aplomb;
Montpelier won't be able to launch a second half bomb.
The clock says 11 seconds. I hear Mr. Paquette chime:
"Congratulations Coach," It's Championship time!!!
