"You thought you were there to guide me, you were only in my way. You're wrong if you think I'll be just like you."

Sarah, I've watched you grow from an all arms and legs little girl trying to control those arms and legs to a teenager that is not only my child but my best friend. We grew close through everything we've been through and you know what I mean. To this beautiful woman that is now turning into an adult, you've come a long way, and you've made me so proud. I love you so much. Whatever you choose to do in life I wish you the best and know you always have my love and support. So give the world hell, sweetie.

Tyler,

Congratulations! We are so proud of you. Your quiet nature, positive attitude and determination have paid off. You have the ability to go far in life. Continue to challenge yourself, use your good judgment, make wise choices and most of all believe in yourself and your abilities. Always know how proud we are of you and how much we love you.

Sar,

Over the years we have watched you grow into a strong, independent, beautiful, caring young woman. You have overcome one of your biggest fears, and you were my and Dad's rock, helper and supported last year. Forever grateful.

Whatever it is you decide to do with your life, do it. don't just dream!! You'll do great things with your life, enjoy it to the fullest. Life is too precious not to. Be strong, and always know that we're here for you.

We love you, baby girl!

Tim,

It's hard to believe that you will be graduating this year. I know that there are great things in store for you. I want to share with you a famous quote that I first heard when I was close to your age.

Love, Your Old Man.

"When I was a boy of 14,

my father was so ignorant

I could hardly stand to have the old man around.

But when I got to be 21,

I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years." - Mark Twain

Just one step at a time
There's no need to rush
It's like learning to fly, or falling in love
It's going to happen
When it's supposed to happen
And we find the reasons why
One step at a time

Make memories that last a lifetime
Excel in everything you do
Laugh at yourself
Interact with people in need
See the world around you Smile (It confuses impolite people)
Always be our little girl!

Your playing small does not serve the world.
There is nothing enlightened about shrinking so that other people won't feel insecure around you.
We were born to make manifest the glory of God within us.
It is not just in some; it is in everyone.
And, as we let our own light shine, we consciously give other people permission to do the same.
As we are liberated from our fear, our presence automatically liberates others.

I can't believe the time is here to send you on your way. I am very proud of the beautiful young lady you have become.

Becoming an adult isn't easy. Each day will bring you many challenges!

Please remember that sometime life doesn't go as planned and not getting what we want can sometimes be blessing in disguise. There is a plan for you. Be patient and most of all believe in your self. You will have many choices. Choose carefully. Work for what will make you complete. When you accomplish these things you have worked hard for, you will be smiling from your heart.

We'll have times that we don't agree. That's ok. Don't forget a mother's love is unconditional and I will always be here for you.

Keep smiling!

Some thoughts to consider as you leave the Little City:

If you need help, ask for help.

Practice "Thank you." How to say it. How to receive it.

Don't be rude to the wait staff.

Clothes make the man. Naked people have little or no influence on society.

Go outside when the sun is out.

and, finally,

Always do right. This will gratify some people and astonish the rest.

Love, one proud Mom xoxo

Hey Boy,

What can we say about a kid like you! You have amazed us with your wit and charm, your lovable but goofy wisdom, your dedication to family and friends, but mostly, you just bring you! Remember to always follow your heart, and never forget who you are or where you came from. We will always love you and forever be there for you.

All our love, Mom, Dad and Turd

To My Chicken Legs

I am so proud of everything that you have accomplished this far in your life. We've had our ups and downs, and I'm glad we had each other's back. You're the best BIG little brother I could've asked for.

"Congratulations!
Today is your day.
You're off to Great Places!
You're off and away!

You have brains in your head.
You have feet in your shoes.
You can steer yourself any direction you choose.
You're on your own. And you know what you know.
And YOU are the guy who'll decide where to go."

Oh The Places You'll Go

To the Class of 2009 --

Graduation -- wow. This year seems to have sped by and here we are, about to leave high school. I can't speak for everyone, but I know I've had a good experience at Vergennes, and I think that most seniors would agree with me. We've worked, studied, played, and I like to think that we've made our school, and our world, a slightly better place. I've learned a lot in four years of high school, not just from books and teachers but from other members of my class. This class has a lot to offer in a range of gifts and I hope that whatever its members go on to do, they use those gifts well. I know that we can be successful and enjoy life -- so let's go out and do it!

Jessy Sturtevant: Editor 2009 Blue & White

In Honor Of His Honor

Ralph Paquette

The following decree has been dutifully and legally issued by some very important people, namely the Class of 2009, to be read on auspicious occasions such as this.

We do hereby decree that the career, caring and advice of one said individual has made all the difference in our lives. On many occasions said individual has traveled great distances to attend our sporting events in support of our endeavors on the field. On many occasions the wit, wisdom and common sense of said individual has brought us to our senses and made us think about real world issues. On a daily basis said individual has taken us into subjects critical to our lives such as tortes, tickets, credit cards, leases, insurance, jury duty, buying a car and so much more.

As a collective body we are unanimously here to award, cheer, and downright thank said individual in a way fitting of your impact on us.

So with all due legal ease, dignified whoopls and just plain love, The Class of 2009 dedicates its Blue and White Yearbook to Mr. Ralph

Teacher Of the Year

Cookie Step

Mrs. Step is fond of telling her students, "For all things there is a first time." Whether it is a speech, a project, a piece of software or becoming a historian, all her students know her passion for life extends beyond the classroom.

Off and History Running

History is filled with the sound of silken slippers going downstairs and wooden shoes coming up.

The science department has been working on many things; there is an increase in available technology for both students and teachers, curriculum changes are being made to make the courses offered more energetic, challenging and hands-on, and the teachers are creating websites for the courses they teach. These websites may include daily schedules, additional resources, and alternative options for each unit. As always it is the department's hope to attract more students to the elective courses; it is our belief that all students are capable of pursuing further scientific endeavors. With a shift towards whole-school guidelines, the science department is in the forefront of building student accountability. We are doing this through the use of student email accounts for increased communication between students and teachers, frequent progress reports, and a ever-present focus on lifetime learning and inquiry.

Leading the explorations in science are Sarah Thompson, Elizabeth Jamison, Mark Powers, Judy Wigen, Robert Ebel & Herman Boyen

ARSITY ROWING

The Vergennes Rowing team remains undefeated. In October the first race of the season was held on our own Lake Champlain at the Burlington Waterfront. Over 120 rowers competed from Vermont, Maine, Mass, and Connecticut. At the end of the day the Varsity team consisting of Dan Averill, Ethan Baldwin, Adam Bonde, Jarrett Clark, Justin Lalumiere, Danton Strona, and Pat McCarthy finished first among all the competitors entered. The next race will be November 22, an invitational consisting of the most highly-skilled youth open-water rowers in all of New England - from Newburgh and New York City, NY, New Haven, CT, Lake Champlain, VT, Muise's North Haven and Vinahaven, and in Massachusetts, from Boston, Hull, Hingham, Gloucester, Hanover, and Plymouth. Over 200 teenagers participate every year in big, traditional rowing boats that they have built themselves. Good luck rowers!

Taking a Trip to our Nation's Capital

Walking the streets of Washington, D.C., it is impossible not to be reminded of the power and precious nature of our freedom, given to us by birth and charged to each of us to keep for the next generations.

For Now I Forget

Forget it, I'm so sick of this, always wanting, but never getting, always looking, but never finding Thinking of him and never telling, singing the song that nobody's heard, keep it to your self, so you have something of your own, being told you're not loved, and not knowing it it's true, just another time, with no job, no money, and the right thing to do is keep forgetting all the pain and hurt, caring but not telling, loving but not showing, I hold these moments when all I want to do is beat & hurt, but face the world it's Just too far away

By Briena Ploof

Free in The Forest Of Life

The trees comfort the broken heart,
When you're lonely it hurts to be apart
From them.
I'm the forest's only kin, yes,
Leaves fall as I have done for you,
You share the same love for the forest too.
Now free from society's cage,
Free to love, free from all the rage.
The trees, its branch
The fields, their ranch
Way out, the river flows through the trees,
Sitting on its rocky bend it also comforts me,
Everything free,
Uncontained
From all the pain.
I am now.

Earth Scar

The world runs circles
The blood of the earth runs deep
We dig and steal from our earth
It repays us with destruction and death
Earth's scabs are peeling away
We will drown in its blood

By Jack DeVos

Drowning

I fell out of a boat looking at fish
I begin to wonder is this the end
As I sink down to the bottom I wish I wish I could be like you and just blend
The water is slowly fading away
Revealing the truth of society
I come back to life revealing we're strong
When the water is gone no one is mighty
Everyone is equal, no one is better
We follow the ways of the free masons
No one is lower to a Jester
We go out not up like the seasons
If you think your life is greater than mine
If you're better than me let me be, I'm fine

By Will Vaughan

Truth lives in boxes painted like stories not even Pandora can open.
We, stragglers of Earth, can only see through their walls by following the shifting pattern of translucent cracks and scrapes marred on their sides by that silent roar of quake whose shattering epicenter lies at the heart of a gently beating poem.

By Jessica Sturtevant

A breeze, a soft sound, whispers through the wood,
Its warm embrace grasping all it can reach,
The leaves of trees dance softly as they could,
Within this breeze, for nature has no breach.

Alas, as one leaf falls into the grasp,
Of a swiftly running stream that is below,
As it hits the water for one last gasp,
And is swept away, but has it gone? Who knows?

But what has become of the tree we left,
Whose leaf has been lost, oh what a poor tree,
Yet it lives again, unhindered by theft,
For the one that was lost is now but three.

The story's moral is as you can see,
Although it is lost, unhindered you be.

By William Vincent

Our Love

The times you make sure nothing will harm me
The way you always hold my hand so tight
Those simple moments when he's all I see
When he tells me I'm his every delight

My heart, he never siezes it to astound
Like that one time while spinning in circles
He kissed my lips and he made my heart pound
That night I wrote for hours in my journals

He plays with my hair as I fall asleep
Holding me safe like I'm a china doll
Our love it is deeper than just skin deep
Not knowing this far in love could I fall

That amazing boy loves with his whole heart
Our live we can never see far apart

Suzanne

The old trembling woman sits on the sidewalk
A dirty tin can with a small dime and a penny
She holds it out with her little strength
Her cardboard lays damp from the early morning dew
Her hair is matted and her body a filthy mess

Help Suzanne
She lays here everyday
Help Suzanne
She's hungry now
Help Suzanne

She hides in subway stations and sleeps on the streets
Watching all the busy people walking by wishing she was in their shoes
Had a job
Had a house
Had a life
Was not just a bum

Help Suzanne
She lays here everyday
Help Suzanne
She's hungry now
Help Suzanne

People think she's not human
A disgrace to our world
We have no acceptance!
Only power and war
When will we learn to be kind and not leave people behind?

Help Suzanne
She lays here everyday
Help Suzanne
She's hungry now
Help Suzanne

Days turn to weeks
Weeks turn to months
Months turn to years
Suzanne grows old and is left alone
She's happy now

Don't help Suzanne
You missed your chance
Don't help Suzanne
She's got her own wings now
Don't help Suzanne
She's quieted down

A Little More Lost

The passion of Steen, the power of the students and the creativity of a live performance

PLOT

After crashing in an unknown land, three everyday American teenagers find themselves desperateto find civilization. What they don t know is the civilization they ll find here is one gone awry in its attempt to mold young people s minds and turn them into factory-formed ersatzes of human children forever in the emotional detachment of brainwashed delusion. The Headmistress has a plan; affect every child in the world....

SYNOPSIS

In the year 1778, Ben Franklin writes a letter for future generations to discover. He tells of a time foretold by the Founding Prophet J. Smith Denver, when the country will face a crossroads. That time is 1978, and the crossroads have been discovered by the great (6) grandnephew of Thomas Jefferson, Professor Jefferson. Along with the crack team of researchers he interprets Franklin's words in search of what he hopes is the National Booty. But the Feds have other plans...

The Apple Tree by Tim Johnston

Fresh-cut green grass and pink MacIntosh blooms melt in my ears as the bees hum.

Under the tree,
I gaze up through frilly branches at chameleon clouds, wondering how long before the apples will be tiny and green, and then, when the apples will grow red for eating.

High Above the Waves by Justus Sturtevant

Far out at sea a beacon of light
Shines through the fog
Like a lone flashlight
In a sea of darkness

Polar Bears

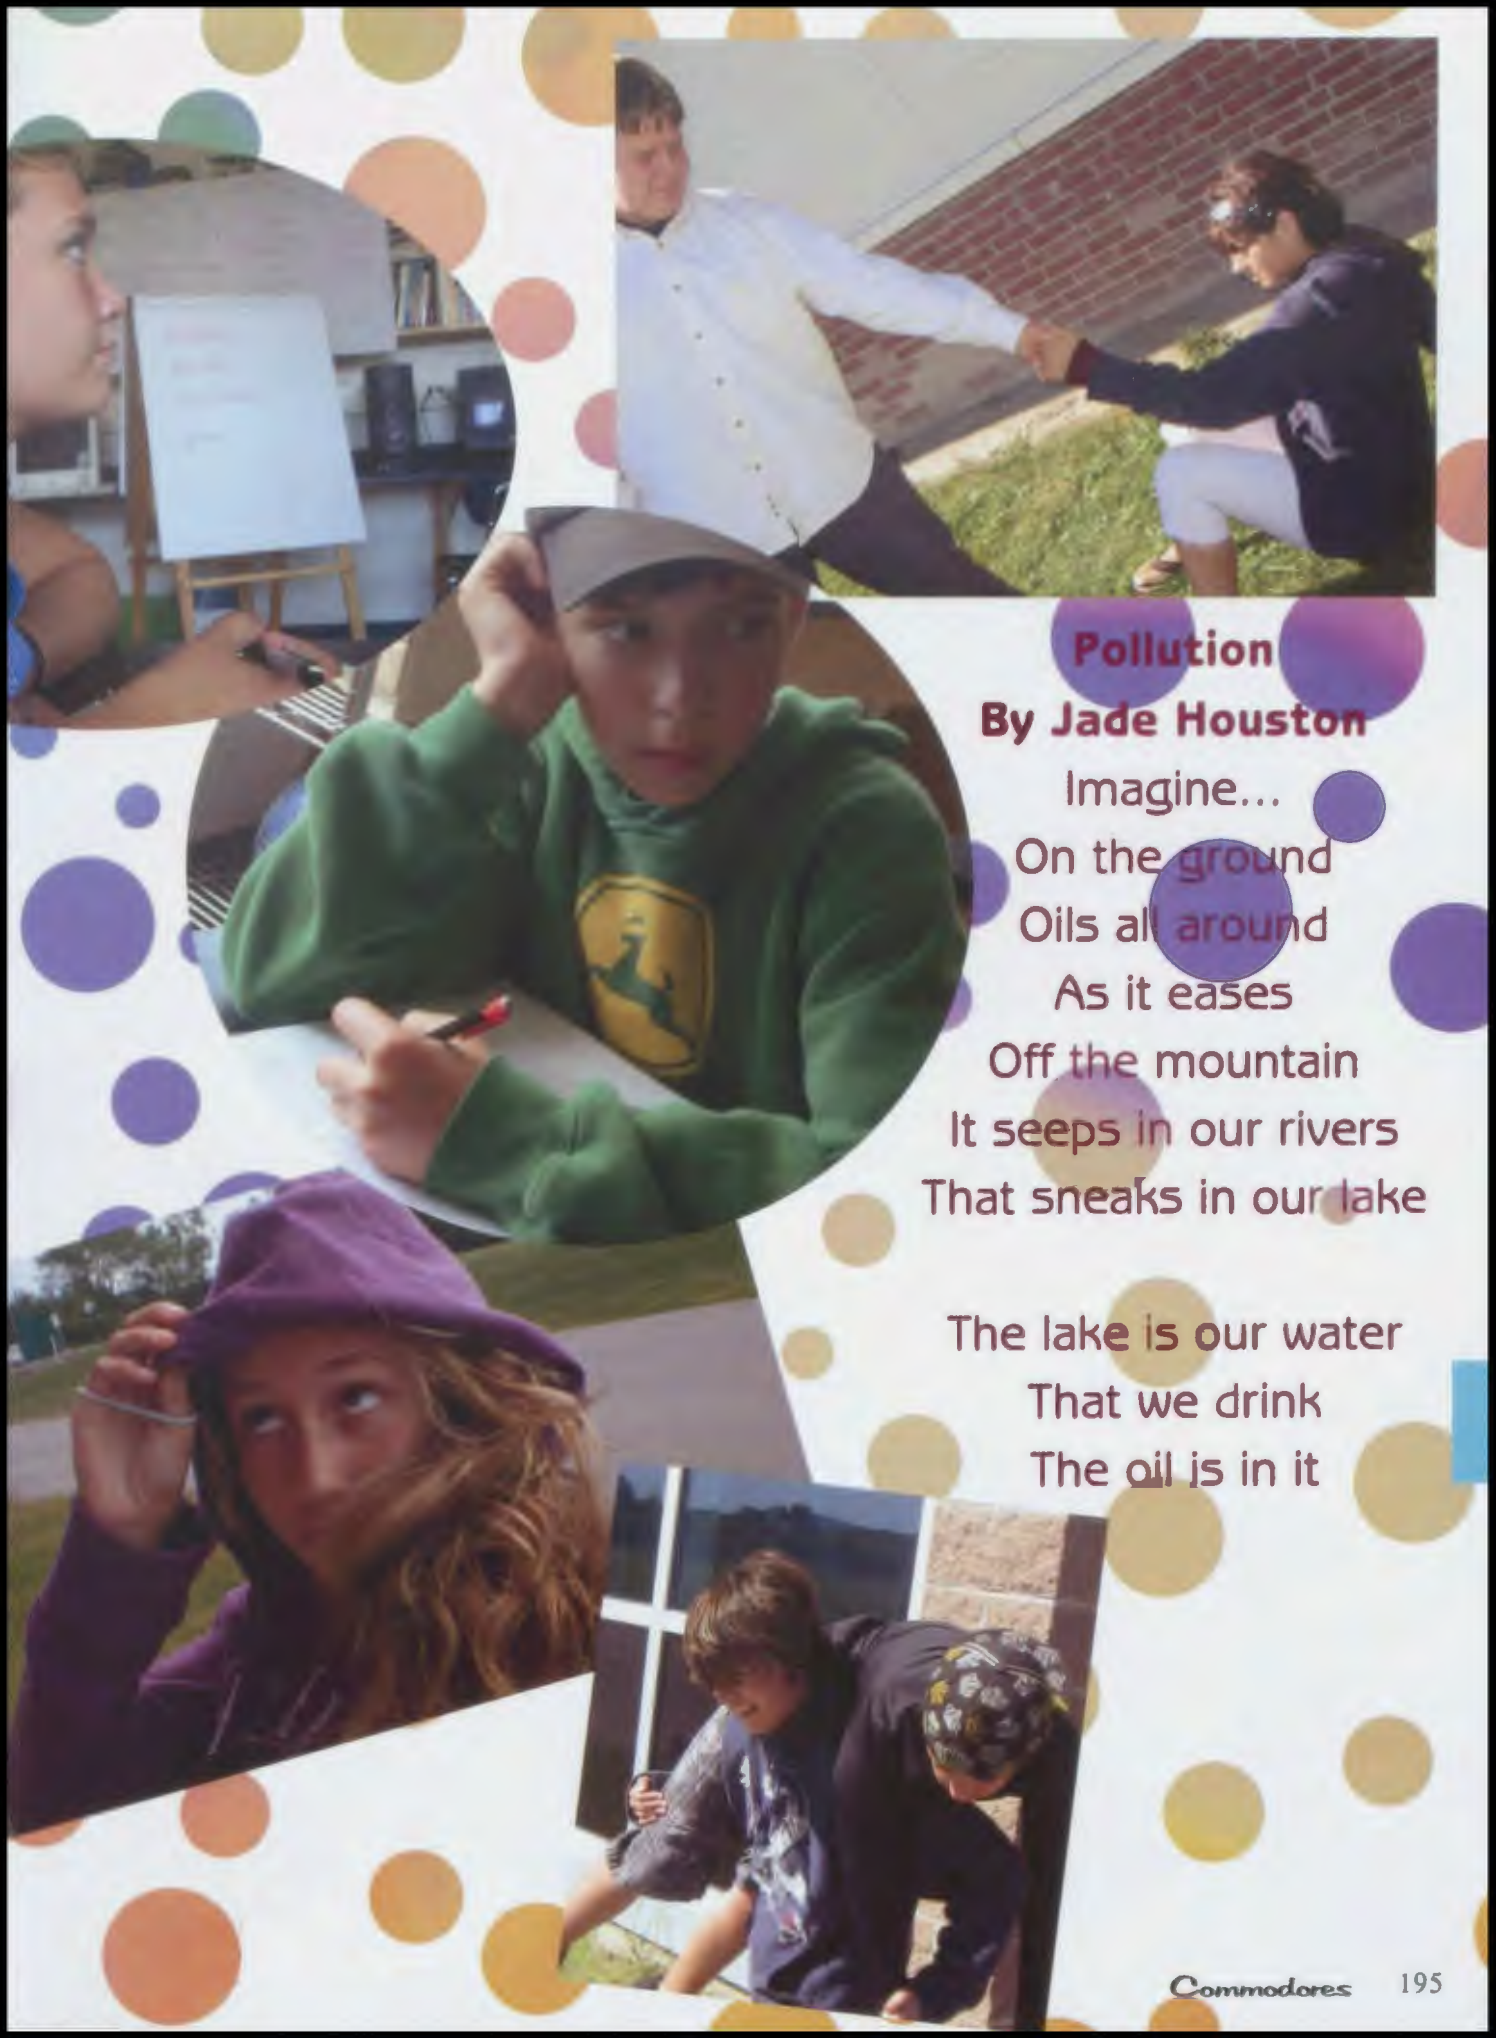

By Kayla Sawyer

Fluffy white polar bears used to roam the ice.

Until Global Warming came along and melted the ice away.

Though everyone loves these animals,
people don't know how to help.

So these beautiful creatures are left to suffer.

Warren E. Case

Warren was a nationally known photographer who created a blossoming trade in color processing in the '40s. He was born in Baltimore, but moved to Vermont as an infant. Graduated from Middlebury High School and Rochester Institute of Technology, majoring in photography. He immediately went to work for Holiday Magazine, where he set up the publication's color processing system. He moved to Middlebury a year later and started New England Color Studio and did color photographic work for dozens of magazine covers and a variety of publications. Warren worked for Kennedy Bros. for 25 years as photographer for the company's catalogs, foreman of the production shop and eventually as vice president. He continued in his retirement to photograph and produce prints out of his own darkroom.

Virginia Cole-Levesque

Few individuals in education have a career as long and as distinguished as our Mrs. Cole- Levesque. Beginning with Adams, Massachusetts and continuing to Randolph, Vermont, Chelsea, Vermont, Rutland, Vermont, Fair Haven and then joining our staff as the Director of Student Services and Guidance in 2001. Many, many students have benefited from the caring and professionalism of Dr. Cole Levesque and all at VUHS salute her accomplishments and wish her well in her future endeavors.

Getting down to the business of budgets is not for the faint hearted. Since Donna Cocoran joined the staff at the Central Office in 1992 she has done it all. First as a receptionist, an accountant and taking over the Business Manager position in November of 1994. Famed for her caring, her accuracy and her ability to crunch numbers with the best, VUHS and all in the district salute her commitment, her caring and her tackling of the world of school budgets

Donna Cocoran: Business Manager

The Life Coach of VUHS

Honoring Ralph Paquette: Teacher, Soldier, Coach & Friend

"Remember, when you get those credit card deals in the mail that no one loves you that much. You must be informed and involved in your financial future." For the past decade and beyond Ralph Paquette has been involved and intense in his desire for VUHS students to succeed in school, on the court and in life. His advice is legendary and his caring a legacy that has touched more than he knows. To all who had his class and benefited from his common sense approach to life, our lives are forever enriched.

The Voice of VUHS

Ann taught middle school reading at VUHS as well as teaching from 1968-1972 at the Weeks School, but returned to join the faculty permanently in 1975. She moved to teaching high school English in 1981 and saw her first class of seniors through their graduation in 1982. During her tenure at the school she held the positions of developmental reading teacher, High School English teacher, Basic Competencies Coordinator, Gifted and Talented Coordinator, Assistant Principal, Athletic Director, English Department Coordinator, Graduation Coordinator, Yearbook Advisor, Speech Teacher and official memory keeper and guardian of school history. When questioned about her early years at the school Ann remarks on the "...emphasis on professionalism and the expectation of all to be role models for the students. We were a professional team and spent hours discussing what would benefit the students the most. Innovative programs like Contemporary Man, Humanities and CAST Chemistry were created in the seventies, well ahead of other schools and while they didn't always meet the enrollment projections, they met the needs of the students, so the classes ran."

Ann's career was firmly grounded in her belief that she had to "be herself and always be honest to herself, and that you can't live outside your value system." Seeing her in the hallways in all of her capacities and jobs at VUHS, the students were continually struck by her pride in them as students, pride in her school and her strong love of the Vergennes community. And, yes, there is that voice, the one that needs no microphone and one that seems capable of speaking at any event, for any reason, with the ease of a practiced orator. All involved with VUHS openly stand in awe at Sully's mastery of the spoken word.

To all who had and loved her, Ann Sullivan was the voice and heart of VUHS for over 30 years.

Honoring F. Ann Sullivan

The One We'll Tell Our Grandchildren About

Okay, so this past year wasn't perfect. There were a few bumps in the road that may have caused the headlines to be predominantly pessimistic. Californians had a little trouble putting out wildfires, and the Gulf Coast got a little soggy during Hurricane Ike and Gustav. Wall Street and Detroit both needed to borrow a couple of bucks from the government after major lunks and the "big three" U.S. automakers threatened to go bankrupt. Even our most beloved bean-counter, Starbucks, were forced to close over 200 locations due to an overwhelming economic downturn.

Get through it all, we had some wonderful distractions to occupy our time and take us to happier places. The 2008 Olympics gave us athletes to rally around and an opening ceremony that dazzled the world. Superheroes topped the box office while Disney was busy making her comeback. And if ever we did have a problem, there was probably an application in iPhone's App Store that could solve it.

And underneath all of this - the good, the bad, and the ugly - was the constant buzz of the 2008 Presidential race. From the lengthy democratic primary to the overwhelming voter turnout on election day, the race was historic from day one. And in a time when words like "recession" and "bailout" seemed to dominate the nightly news, a man who built his campaign on the words "Hope" and "Change" became the country's choice to lead us into the next era of America. On January 20th, 2009, the entire globe watched in anticipation as Barack Hussein Obama took the Oath of Office and became the first African-American to be inaugurated as President of the United States of America.

Nope, the past year wasn't perfect, far from it. There were moments that we'd rather forget. But to have lived through it is to have witnessed history being made on some of the highest levels imaginable. And that's worth remembering.

Barack Obama becomes the 44th President of the United States

election

◀ Hillary Clinton

The former First Lady and Senator of New York is Obama's formidable opponent during a lengthy Democratic Primary, yet she campaigns for Obama after his nomination is secured. After his election, President Obama names Hillary Clinton as Secretary of State.

◀ John McCain

Obama's Republican opponent, Arizona Senator John McCain spends 2008 criss-crossing the country campaigning for President, ultimately getting only 46% of the popular vote and 173 electoral votes to Obama's 365.

◀ Sarah Palin

This little-known governor from Alaska makes a huge splash when announced as John McCain's running mate. The prospect of being the country's first female Vice-President instantly makes the 2008 election historic regardless of its outcome.

"Change Has Come to America."

On January 20th, 2009, Barack Hussein Obama became the 44th American to take the Oath of Office, and the first African American elected President of the United States. He delivered his inaugural address before a crowd packed with over 1.5 million people eager to be part of the historic inauguration; and stone silent as President Obama spoke. Grown men and women cheered and wept as they witnessed history being made. The President delivered a very crisp, clear speech addressing all walks of American life and our neighbors around the globe.

"I Stand Here Today Humbled by the Task Before Us."

Barack Obama's election is as historic as the challenges he faces as the country's leader. The man who built his campaign on hope and change addressed the nation with a humble yet optimistic call to duty for all Americans to begin rebuilding a nation that is "bigger than the sum of our individual ambitions; greater than all the differences of birth or wealth or faction."

"Starting today, we must pick ourselves up, dust ourselves off, and begin again the work of remaking America."
