Deighlin,

Times sure have fluctuated between positives and negatives. Good and bad, my love for you will always be there. As difficult as days can be. I want to assure you that you have the drive, the passion, and the dedication in your heart to become whatever you want to be. I know you won't settle for less. Challenge your fears and overcome the doubts that come before you. Take the good with the bad and embrace life for what it is. Look back at the hardships you've encountered and say goodbye to them, because your future holds a whole new dynamic. Whatever that might be, I'm excited for you to reach the next level. I'll be here watching. From my heart to yours, Deighlin Heath. I love you. "Keep on keeping on!!!"

P.S. CLEAN YOUR DANG ROOM!

Lovingly,

Mom, aka "Mama"

Deighlin - I just wanted to let you know how impressed I am at the courage you have shown, the work ethic you have displayed and the goals you have set for your life. Keep your compass set to "true north" and you will accomplish many things. Thank you for your friendship, know I'll always be here when you need me. Chris

SANDRA J. CHICOINE: Teacher OF THE YEAR

"A leader is one who knows way, goes the way, and shows the way." John Maxwell

Helping each student become safe drivers is only part of what sets Sandy Chicoine apart. She cares and leads from her heart.

Showing how to connect to the community through Homeward Bound, Sandy Chicoine teaches students to give time and love to animals
and to help people learn how to be conscientious and loving pet owners.
Her own dogs are a hit with all the students and her example is one to follow.

As one of the founder of the GSA (Gay, Straight Alliance) Sandy Chicoine is tireless in making sure all students feel loved, welcome and safe. She is persistent, tireless and on top of the atmosphere in our school and in our student body. For that and many other reasons she was selected as the VUHS Teacher of the Year.

Mathematically speaking, the sum is almost always more than the parts that make up the equation. The same holds true for people too. When the Class of 2015 identified people in their lives and in the common equation of their school experience, one name shown brighter than the most for not only making connections, but for leading them to find solutions past the problem on the page and more about how to live their lives and be good people. Nancy Ambrose leads her students from a place in her heart that always has room for one more and makes each one feel like one of her own. Maybe it was having triplets that gave her this unique ability, but whether it is milk and cookies, attending games, advice from the sideline or in the classroom, selling tickets, hauling students, providing hugs and momentum, this math teacher wins the award and the love of the Class of 2015. Thank you Nancy Ambrose for seeing in us that we are more than just parts of an equation, that we are individual, and for helping us all reach for our dreams.

A Walk in the Woods

The Walden Project

"Life consists with wildness. The most alive is the wildest. Not yet subdued to man. Its presence refreshes him," Matt Schlein

The educational model springs from Henry David Thoreau's semihermetic experience at Walden Pond in the 1800s, when he abandoned conventional work for two years and immersed himself in the outdoors. "I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately," Thoreau wrote in Walden, "to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived." (Outside In: The Walden Project Helps Students See the Forest for the Trees)

On days when students are not in the woods, they pursue internships nearby in Burlington, Vt., or attend writing workshops.

"I once had a sparrow alight upon my shoulder for a moment, while I was hoeing in a village garden, and I felt that I was more distinguished by that circumstance that I should have been by any epaulet I could have worn."
Thoreau

Varsity Rowing

A Great Day of Rowing

"In elementary school, I despised team sports. At the time, being on a team seemed like the worst thing that could happen to me. Then, in eighth grade, I decided to join rowing. Though it didn't seem like it after my first practice (when I was incredibly tired and sore), joining was one of the best decisions I have ever made."

Now, four seasons later, I am co-captain of the team and stroke oar of the experienced 1 crew. My boat has raced three times this fall season and, on equal footing, we have dominated the competition every single time. The feeling that you get when you cross the finish line after a mile, three miles, or six miles of giving it everything you have is quite unlike any other. You have pushed your physical and mental self to the absolute limit and knowing that you have done that is a completely unique sensation. It's incredibly different from the feeling after winning a soccer or basketball game. There, if you don't reach your full potential, you are taken out of the game. In rowing, there are no take outs. No coach communication on the water, it's just you and your crew. Every single person on the boat is indispensable and every person matters. Four seasons later, I realized that I love team sports."

As the fall rowing season came to an end off the coast of Massachusetts at the annual Ice Breaker Yesterday, I couldn't help but become sentimental. While I guided my experienced group through the roaring wind and bow breaking waves I took time to note that not one rower's face was missing a gleaming smile. My team is one of the best in New England not just for being strong, but for coming together as one and being a family. This is a group of people that I am not afraid to be myself around and can trust with anything. I can't begin to describe what it feels like to have a team of people standing behind you. We may not have had a great race yesterday but you must not forget, we defeated our enemy: the wind. As my senior year fall season comes to a close, I realize how fortunate I have been to be with you all. Thank you for an absolutely spectacular fall season! XOXO Emily Weber (Senior)

Exchange Students

Mariana Rodrigues Monteiro-Brazil

Q: Why did you choose to become an exchange student?

A: My family does this a lot, some of my cousins did an exchange program and loved it! Also, since I was little I watched American movies and I loved the culture.

Q: What has been the most fun?

A: The most fun was probably seeing snow for the first time! I also really enjoyed Halloween, and trying new things like basketball, skiing, and more!

Adrian Petri-Germany

Q: Why did you choose to become an exchange student?

A: The idea originally came from my mom, and I researched it. I decided it would be a good experience and it would help me learn the language.

Q: What has been the most fun?

A: Soccer season was the most fun I've had here. Playing in the games and the team dinners were really fun. I also enjoyed playing ice hockey.

Victoria Zemanek-Austria

Q: Why did you choose to become an exchange student?

A: I wanted to go abroad for a year so that I could experience a different culture and grow as a person. I really liked the idea of living a different life for a year.

Q: What has been the most challenging?

A: I think the most challenging thing was making friends. It's a different culture and a different language, but I think I did a good job at selecting my friends.

Lucy Deprat-France

Q: Why did you choose to become an exchange student?

A: I chose to become an exchange student because I was interested in what school was like in the USA, and also to practice my English.

Q: What do you miss most about your home, and what do you like most about your home here?

A: I miss my mom the most, and I also miss the temperature and sun of where I live. What I like most here is the Kamman family.
